Abstract : Abstract Chainat Province, Thailand had been given some budgets (the Governor’s budget) for the pilot project of rice seed production and management for distribution by the community in Tambon Nang Rue and Tha Chai in 2005. By promotion contract farmers to produce rice seeds as a business. The operation was started by the group of farmers, rice seed producer group, Nang Lue - Tha Chai, had been registered as a community enterprise and raising funds from members and borrow some from the Bank for Agriculture and Agricultural Cooperatives for purchase of seeds from members. Thai Government supported the seed processing plan, capacity of 2.5 tons per hour, with a budget of 20 million baht . At the target initial production of 500 tons per year and sold out, insufficiency to customer demand. The community group determined increase production target every year. It currently has a production target of about 4,500 - 5,000 tons per year to manage the seed production system by the farmers. However, the development of rice seed production and marketing system by farmers is ongoing. They also encourage and teach with their experience and manufacturing skills to the other seed producers in Chainat and other provinces. Therefore, rice seeds production from Tumbon Nang Lue , Tumbon Tha Chai , and other districts in Chainat Province are the production champion. The farmers believed that rice seed from source of production, Chainat province are the best of rice seed in Thailand.
